* Availability of welfare programs differs depending on the types of employment.

Education and Training

In order to help employees improve their skills, knowledge, and abilities, the USFJ provides various education and training programs, such as computer courses, office skills improvement courses as well as supervisor training courses. (See column below for education of new members.)

Education of New Members

We introduce one example of the education of new members in the U.S. Navy's Far East Signal Corps.

U.S. Naval Computer And Telecommunications Station Far East
Communications Cable Splicer Foreman

Mr. Kosuge Tatsuya

In the U.S. military facilities in the Yokosuka and Yokohama area, we conduct telephone line construction, as well as the installation, management, repair, and maintenance of telecommunications equipment.
When the system was constructed, the specifications used in the U.S. were taken as the standard, and, because work is also performed in collaboration with U.S. military personnel, it is work that requires not only technical but also language skills.
Furthermore, there are a variety of duties to be performed because the district we oversee is vast, but we work hard together every day. The work is divided up among three primary teams, and leaders, experts, and apprentice employees are distributed evenly in each team. If one becomes an expert, there is also work that one can perform alone; however, since there is always an expert associated with an apprentice, one can work without any worries.
Due to the fact that communication cables made in the U.S. differ from the Japanese standard, there a lot of things that even those with communication experience do not know, so it is important to first learn how to perform the work when assisting leaders. It takes approximately five years to become independent.
